

CONRAD ANKER World-class rock, ice and mountain climber Conrad Anker inspires a new generation of wilderness explorers in National Parks Adventure. Conrad's journeys have taken him from Alaska and Baffin Island to Patagonia and Antarctica. In May 2012, Conrad summited Everest for the third time, without supplemental oxygen. Thirteen years prior, Conrad found the body of early Everest explorer George Mallory and has since written The Lost Explorer: Finding Mallory on Everest. Although he's been feted internationally for the May 2011 ascent of the Shark's Fin on 20,700-foot Mount Meru (an ascent featured in the 2015 documentary Meru), Conrad took equal pleasure in his recent summit of Denali with his oldest son, Max. As captain of The North Face Athlete Team, Conrad has urged climbers to be boots on the ground in observing the changes wrought by man-made climate change.

He serves on the boards of the Montana State University Leadership Institute, Protect Our Winters, Bozeman Ice Tower Foundation and the Alex Lowe Charitable Foundation, which funds the Khumbu Climbing Center in Phortse, Nepal. For information visit www.conradanker.com.

RACHEL POHL At the heart of National Parks Adventure is young artist and adventurer Rachel Pohl's quest to visit all the National Parks across the United States. Born and raised in Bozeman, Montana, Rachel has always been at home in wilderness. She can often be found skiing, painting, climbing, mountain biking or exploring wild places. She also loves teaching art lessons, and volunteering with at-risk adolescents.

The joyful nature of her paintings, with their vibrant colors and stylized forms, are reminiscent of the feeling of moving through a dynamic and billowing world of light and shadow. Her work can be seen at www.rachelpohllart.com.

MAX LOWE Max Lowe travels with his friend Rachel Pohl and his step-father Conrad Anker amid the stunning beauty of the National Parks in National Parks Adventure. Before he could even walk, Max was packed along on wilderness adventures across the globe. From his home in the mountains of Montana to Antarctica, Nepal and Mongolia, he has been witness to extraordinary moments, wildlife, people and places. It was these experiences that stemmed his drive to traverse this world, and capture moments with his camera. After his father, Alex, passed away in 1999, Conrad Anker, Alex's best friend and climbing partner, slowly became a big part of Max's life and eventually married his mother Jennifer. Since Max graduated from college in 2011 he has continued to live in the realm of his father and step-father, as a story teller via film and photo. A National Geographic Youth Explorer, Max works out of his home in Montana. His work can be seen at www.maxlowemedia.com.

PRESIDENT THEODORE ROOSEVELT (played by Joe Wiegand)

Joe Wiegand is regarded as the nation's premiere reprimor of Theodore Roosevelt. Joe's live performances have been featured at hundreds of historic places, including a performance at the White House for President & Mrs. George W. Bush on Roosevelt's 150th birthday. Joe has been featured at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City and served as the body model for the Roosevelt bronze sculpture at the museum. Customers including the Renwick Gallery of the Smithsonian American Art Museum, the White House Historical Association, and the National Park Service attest that Joe's Theodore Roosevelt is based on solid scholarship and delivered with Rooseveltian showmanship. More information is available at www.teddyrooseveltshow.com

To inquire about speaker availability and fees, please contact:

Lori Rick, MacGillivray Freeman Films, 949-494-1055, lricks@macfreefilms.com